

GAS KILLS ONE OF TWO.

Henry Ohiragge Asphyxiated as He Slept by His Brother's Side.

BROKEN TUBE TO BLAME.

Neighbors Came Too Late to Save Henry's Life, but Richard May Recover.

Henry and Richard Ohiragge, brothers, twenty-three and thirty-four years old respectively, were found asphyxiated by gas in bed in the rear of their grocery store, 223 East Twenty-first street, at 7 o'clock this morning. Henry was dead. Richard is recovering in Bellevue Hospital.

The brothers slept together on a mattress in a little room back of the store which was heated by a gas stove from which a long rubber pipe ran to the gas furnace.

The tube was old and had become cracked and frayed where it doubled over to fit on the gas jet. During last night it broke at that point after the men were asleep.

When the baker came around to deliver bread he was unable to arouse the men, and Mrs. Moohan, the janitress, went down to see what was the matter. When she, too, was unable to arouse them Policeman Burke was called and broke in the door.

An ambulance from Bellevue took both away. Henry to the morgue and Richard to the hospital. Richard revived and it is said will recover.

Richard is the proprietor, and Henry was his assistant in the store, which was in a five-story tenement building. Richard was at first made a prisoner by the police and he was placed in the prison ward of Bellevue. Later he was released, as it was found there was no cause for suicide or murder, and the grocery business was good and the brothers had been very friendly. No letters were found, and both men had been in good health.

SHOT HIMSELF IN BRD.

James W. Wakeloe, a Real-Estate Dealer, Commits Suicide in His Home.

James W. Wakeloe, forty years old, a real estate dealer, shot himself in the head last night at his home on Ninth street, near Bath avenue. Bath Beach, and was found dead this morning with a bullet wound through his heart.

A five-chambered revolver lay on the bed, one chamber of which had been discharged.

The police investigated and found that Wakeloe has been in poor health and dependent for a year. He had an office on Bath avenue near Bath Beach. He lived in the Preston cottage.

DEATH BEFORE THE KNIFE.

Mrs. George Lauterbach Hanged Herself Rather Than Submit to an Operation.

Mrs. George Lauterbach, of Brighton, N. Y., hanged herself rather than undergo a surgical operation.

Mrs. Lauterbach went to a physician some time ago about a tender spot on her jaw. He found there was an abscess and told her she must submit to an operation. The time was fixed for to-day.

She positively declined to go through the operation.

"I would rather die," she declared, but her family reassured her and she finally consented.

At 10 o'clock on her mind and yesterday she was found in her room dead. She had hanged herself with a sheet to the headboard of the bed.

FATAL FALL DOWN SHAFT.

Joseph Walkenbach, engineer of the four-story building 103 Broadway, Williamsburg, who was found unconscious at the bottom of the elevator shaft at 1:30 o'clock last night by Superintendent Shaver, died early to-day in St. Catherine's Hospital, Brooklyn.

The elevator was stalled between the second and third floors. Walkenbach is thought to have fallen only from the first story into the shaft, which ends in a sub-cellar below.

There is no mention of any play and it is believed that he was alone when he fell while making his rounds of the building.

WHERE IS DADA?

Mother so Seriously Ill and Her "Loving Sister" Wants Her to Return Home.

To the Editor of the Evening World:

Will some of the readers of The Evening World kindly suggest some way by which I can find a lost sister who disappeared from home Feb. 20 last. My mother is seriously ill. We do not know her or where to find her. If "Dada" only knew how heartbroken we are and how glad we would be to see her I know she would help us.

LOVING SISTER.

ARTIST SUES FOR DIVORCE.

James H. Mattison, of Jersey City, says he is married to a woman with Alfred Wilson.

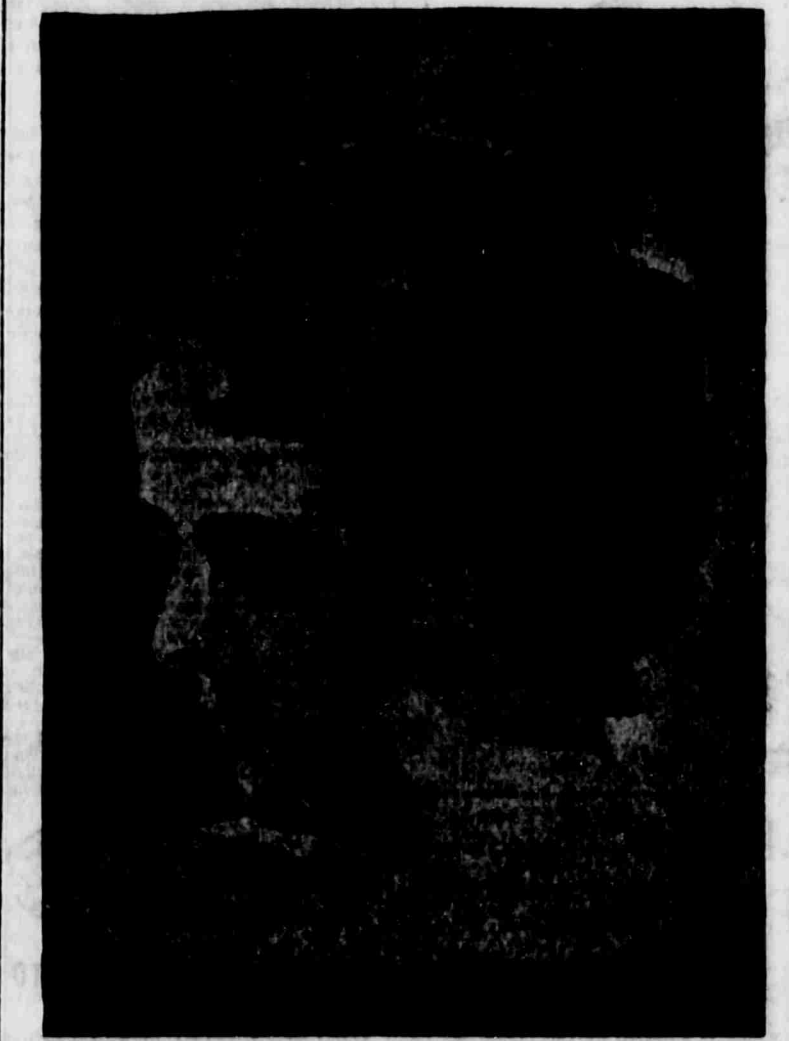

A petition for divorce and counsel fees was filed to-day in the Chancery Court, Jersey City, by Lawyer John Goldstein on behalf of Mrs. Mattison.

Goldstein says that Mattison is suing for a divorce.

The couple were married on June 22, 1928, at a ceremony held at the home of the bride's parents.

MOORE'S BADGER VICTIM IS DEAD.

Martin Mahon, a Beautiful Woman's Dupe, Dies in Redlands, California, of Consumption.

FATHE MOORE.

The body of Martin Mahon, one of the owners of the New Amsterdam Hotel and the victim of the notorious Moore badger case, who died yesterday at the Hotel Casa Loma, Redlands, Cal., is on its way East. The funeral services will be held, it is said, at 127 East Twenty-seventh street, where Mahon's widow and three daughters live.

Mahon caught a heavy cold two winters ago and consumption developed. He went West several months ago, hoping to regain his health, but it was too late. The last letter received by Manager A. Foster, of the hotel, stated that he had little hope.

Martin Mahon was fifty-five years old and was born in Ireland. He was a widower by trade and when he came to this country he entered into partnership with Edward F. Coyne as a builder. The firm prospered and both men became wealthy.

A little over a year ago Mahon was the complainant in the celebrated "badger" case against W. A. A. Moore, who had been appointed United States Consul at Johannesburg, and his wife, Fanny Moore.

Mahon declared that Moore had lured him to her apartments in the Grand Central Hotel under pretense of returning some diamonds he had loaned her, and that while there he had been seduced by Moore, who, at the point of a revolver, compelled Mahon to sign a check for a large sum of money and give him money he had with him.

His first hearing resulted in a verdict awarding him a check of $100,000. The case was then taken to the District Court, where it was decided by the District Attorney that he had gone to Canada to avoid prosecution.

After she had remained in the "badger" case for several months, the indictment against Mrs. Moore was finally quashed by motion of the District Attorney.

Steadily," he told an Evening World reporter to-day, "I got to know him better. He got to drinking very hard a month ago, and confided to me that he was in great trouble."

Showing Murder Weapons.

"On Feb. 14, a week before the tragedy, he showed me a check revolver and a bunch of cartridges."

"I've just bought them at a pawn shop up the street," he said. "It's a mighty cheap gun, for I'm nearly broke, but it will do."

"I've had more trouble with Mahon," he went on, "and I think maybe he may try something serious, so I'm going to be ready for him if he does. What's the use anyway? I've a mighty good notion to end it all. I can't stand it. But I'll tell you one thing, if I go some one else will go with me."

His story of the shooting of the doctor was in line. He came to do some work for me and told me to go to his office in the Endicott on Sunday. He was nervous, and after having several drinks he said: 'Here's the card of a good doctor, if you want much work done.' He went out before I could ask what he meant.

"Dr. Caldwell was a fine, generous, open-hearted man. If he had but let me buy his clothes and wanted a drink, he'd buy it—cent whiskey and walk home, not thinking of saving a nickel for buying cheaper liquor."

That the double tragedy at the Hotel Endicott on Feb. 24, when Mrs. E. P. Hays and Dr. F. L. Caldwell gave up their lives for love, was not unpremeditated, is evident from a story told by the bartender in the cafe at the Hotel Medillon, on Sixth avenue, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets.

"Dr. Caldwell was here pretty often," he said.

Skin-Tortured Babies And Worn-out Worried Mothers Find Comfort in CUTICURA.

SOME MONTHS AGO OUR BABY'S HEAD GOT SORE. We took him to the doctor, who pronounced it poison and gave us some medicine which did no good. His head got so bad he would cry all night, and my wife could sleep no more, and began to look ghastly. She had got so sore that we put a night cap on him, and added a white cloth for his forehead, and in a few days the night's sleep of mother would come out from his head, out from the cloth and cap and on to the pillow. The top and back of his head was almost a solid sore, and looked so ugly that we could not describe it. Almost in despair I told my wife I had seen CUTICURA advertised and recommended very highly and I was going to try it. I bought the CUTICURA, CUTICURA Ointment, CUTICURA Soap, and CUTICURA Cream. We gave him half of the Balm, used part of the ointment of Soap, and before we had used the second bar of CUTICURA Ointment he commenced to get better, and in a few days he was as healthy as anybody's boy. He is as happy as a lark, sleeps soundly all night, and his hair looks glossy, thick, and soft. While my wife looks like a different woman, I look at him and think I owe to you and to CUTICURA to write and tell you of this almost wonderful cure.
